Women in Mining Sponsorship Opportunities

Sponsorship includes display of your corporate logo in:

- Conference program
- Signage outside all social events and meetings
- Registration and information website
- WIM t-shirts provided to participants upon registration
- The opportunity to include informational materials in welcoming packets

(Logo size and location are dependent upon sponsorship level)

Additionally, there are opportunities for named events including:

1. The [your company] Welcoming Reception
2. The [your company] Luncheon
3. The [your company] Reception & Banquet

Sponsorship at any level will also be utilized to offset student member registration, and we invite you to send corporate representatives with registration waived.

About WIM

WIM was founded in 1972 in Denver, Colorado, by several women whose intent was to facilitate education about the mining industry for themselves and for those not acquainted with the role the industry plays in their lives. Members include engineers, geologists, land men, secretaries, lobbyists, mine workers, educators and concerned citizens. Many WIM members are business and civic leaders extending their influence and expertise into their local communities. Such varied backgrounds are extremely beneficial to the organization and members are encouraged to share this expertise and experience both formally and informally. The overriding goal of WIM is to educate both the members and the public about the mining industries.

Virginia Tech’s Women in Mining Chapter was the first student chapter in the US, founded in 2004, and currently has over 50 members, both male and female.
